GENERAL MANAGER

$125K +

With recent positions including General Manager for a streetwear fashion group, this candidate has extensive experience throughout Australia & the UK within high-end fashion, sports & lifestyle clothing manufacturing and advertising. A professional 'Fashionista' with noted contacts within the industry and a proven track record for increasing sales and business relationships and improving offshore production. A strategic business planner who can sustain relationships across all business levels with a fabulous personality to boot! Willing to travel and all locations within Sydney considered.

CREATIVE DIRECTOR/STUDIO MANAGER

$95K +

This candidate has a wealth of experience within fashion, textiles and graphic design, specialising in men's and boy's apparel, including leisurewear, sleepwear, swimwear, loungewear and underwear. Additionally, this candidate has an extensive background within textile design and has worked as a Studio Manager for one of Australia's leading Manchester manufacturers. The diversity of this candidate's background will enable them to take on roles within branding, production, design, graphics and creative direction.

DESIGNER/MERCHANDISER

$70K +

With an extensive background in sport & streetwear, as well as ladieswear and accessories, this candidate has a strong, adaptable skill set. A broad variety of strong design and merchandising experience, coupled with qualifications in both fashion and textile technology will ensure this candidate's success within all areas of fashion. The candidate's bright, vivacious personality, impeccable presentation and strong computer skills will certainly be an asset to any organisation.

BRAND MANAGER

FROM $65K +

After having successfully conceptualised, developed, marketed and manufactured their own fashion forward label, both locally and offshore, this multi-skilled candidate is ready to jump into a new, challenging role. Throughout their career, this candidate has covered all facets of brand management, design, production, shipping, marketing & PR within contemporary & urban men's and ladies' clothing. With a flair for design and strong business acumen, this dynamic candidate is open to opportunities in all areas of the industry.

DESIGN ASSISTANT/PRODUCT DEVELOPER

$55K +

This very impressive candidate has had extensive design and product development experience within high-end ladieswear & menswear, urban, contemporary corporate, casual wear and more, in both Australia and New Zealand. In addition to having worked for several industry leaders, this candidate has also completed a Bachelor of Design degree. Residing on Sydney's city fringe and willing to travel. Incredibly talented with a great attitude!

SALES COORDINATOR/CUSTOMER RELATIONS

$45K +

After having worked as a Customer Relationship Consultant and more recently, as a Sales Coordinator with one of Australia's leading fashion labels, this candidate has a wealth of knowledge within sales & account management, administration, branding and public relations on both a local and International scale. This candidate is soon to complete a degree majoring in marketing, PR and event management. With excellent communication skills, a strong client services ethic and a great personality, this candidate will thrive in any customer focused role.

PA/ADMINISTRATION MANAGER and MARKETING & PUBLIC RELATIONS

$45K +

This impressive candidate has had several years Administration Management, Public Relations, Sales & Marketing and Personal Assistant experience, including having worked for a designer and manufacturer of high end ladies shoes and a leisurewear label. This creative, outgoing candidate is keen to pursue another role within the fashion industry and has the ability to step into any administration, public relations or marketing based role with ease.

RETAIL SALES CONSULTANT/MANAGER

$45K +

With close to a decade of retail experience, including management of high-end fashion stores, this candidate has a consistent track record of generating sales. With impeccable presentation and a bubbly, down to Earth personality, this candidate would suit any high-end fashion retail environment in either a sales or management focused position. Experience in corporate sales, prior to entering the fashion industry, coupled with recent fashion experience would be valuable in any wholesale sales role.
